1. The attached charts illustrate graphically the manner in which liquid fuel deliveries are to be planned and carried out during the plan-year 1954. Plans are drawn up by quarter-years.
2. If the end user is to receive less than 100 metric tons of liquid fuels per month, he presents his approved M 593 form to the local DME Kraftstoffe und Mineraloel office, which authorizes delivery in the specified amount. If, however, the end user is to receive over 100 tons a month, his requirements are placed directly with the Marketing Department of the State Secretariat for Chemistry. He is then authorized to draw the specified amount from a producing plant; larger consumers pay a smaller price for liquid fuels by receiving delivery at the plant.
3. Private firms report their needs to distribution offices of the Kreis Council in which they are located; the needs are then transmitted through the Bezirk level to the State Secretariat. Nationalized firms and plants, however, place their requirements with the specialized group or office which controls their operations.
4. Additional allotments not included in the plan can be procured only if an M-20 form is filled out and presented to the competent authority.

COMMENT: Liquid fuels delivered in accord with the above flow chart are either termed "Z-Produkten" or "M-Produkten". Z-products are those distributed through the Staatliche Komitee to official consumers who will store a certain percentage for emergency use. M-Products are delivered in their entirety for immediate use. Z-Products do not have to be physically delivered to the recipient; instead they may be stored, to the consumer's account, by the Staatliche Komitee.
